Luke 21:34-36—“But take heed to yourselves, lest your souls be weighed down with self-indulgence, and drunkenness, or the anxieties of this life, and that day come on you suddenly, like a falling trap; for it will come on all dwellers on the face of the whole earth. But beware of slumbering; and every moment pray that you may be fully strengthened to escape from all these coming evils, and to take your stand in the presence of the Son of Man” (Weymouth New Testament).

“Eye on the World” comment: This is a shorten edition that will focus upon the presidential election on November 5, 2024.

An article by Laura Parnaby titled “CNN Panel Stunned Into Silence as Republican Pundit [Scott Jennings] Tells Them the ‘Unadulterated Truth’ ” was posted at dailymail.co.uk on Nov. 6, 2024. Following are excerpts of the article.

A panel of CNN political reporters were stunned into stony silence after their Republican pundit spelled out why ordinary Americans voted for Donald Trump.

Viewers were quick to point out the ‘look of horror on the other commenters faces’, including flagship CNN anchor Anderson Cooper, as they wordlessly stared at Jennings while his words hit home.

Jennings said: “I’m interpreting the results tonight as revenge of just the regular old working-class American, the anonymous American who has been crushed, insulted, condescended to. They’re not garbage, they’re not Nazis. They’re just regular people who get up and go to work every day and are trying to make a better life for their kids, and they feel like they have been told to just shut up when they have complained about the things that are hurting them in their own lives.”

Jennings summed up Trump’s victory as a “mandate” – to “get the economy working again for regular working-class Americans, fix immigration, try to get crime under control, try to reduce the chaos in the world.”

Jennings added: “For all of us who cover elections, we have to figure out how to understand, talk to and listen to the half of the country that rose up tonight and said: ‘We’ve had enough’.”

An article by Daniel Greenfield titled “American Uprising” was posted at danielgreenfield.org on Nov. 7, 2024. Following are excerpts of the article. [Editor’s note: While this article does an excellent job of analyzing why Americans voted the way they did, the article does not focus upon the role that God has played in the history of the United States or the role that God will play in the future of the United States.]

This wasn’t an election. It was a revolution.

It’s midnight in America. The day before million of Americans got up and stood in front of the great iron wheel that had been grinding them down. They stood there even though the media told them it was useless. They took their stand even while all the chattering classes laughed and taunted them.

- They were fathers who couldn’t feed their families.
- They were mothers who couldn’t afford health care.
- They were workers whose jobs had been sold off to foreign countries.
- They were sons who didn’t see a future for themselves.
- They were daughters afraid of being murdered by the “unaccompanied minors” flooding into their towns.

They took a deep breath and they stood.

They held up their hands and the great iron wheel stopped.

The Great Blue Wall crumbled. The states fell one by one right down to Pennsylvania. The working class that had been overlooked and trampled on for so long got to its feet. It rose up against its oppressors and the rest of the nation, from coast to coast, rose up with it.

- They fought back against their jobs being shipped overseas while their towns filled with migrants that got everything while they got nothing.

- They fought back against being told that they had to watch what they say.
- They fought back against being held in contempt because they wanted to work for a living and take care of their families. They fought and they won.

This wasn't a vote. It was an uprising. Like the ordinary men chipping away at the Berlin Wall, they tore down an unnatural thing that had towered over them. And as they watched it fall, they marveled at how weak and fragile it had always been. And how much stronger they were than they had ever known.

Who were these people?

- They were leftovers and flyover country.
- They didn't talk right or think right.
- They had the wrong ideas, the wrong clothes and the ridiculous idea that they still mattered.

They couldn't change anything. A thousand politicians and pundits had talked of getting them to adapt to the inevitable future. Instead, they got in their pickup trucks and drove out to vote.

And they changed everything.

Americans were told that walls couldn't be built and factories couldn't be opened. That treaties couldn't be unsigned and wars couldn't be won. It was impossible to ban Muslim terrorists from coming to America or to deport the illegal aliens turning towns and cities into gangland territories. It was all impossible. And they did the impossible. They turned the world upside down.

It's midnight in America. CNN is weeping. MSNBC is wailing. It wasn't supposed to happen. The same machine that crushed the American people for two straight terms, the mass of government, corporations and non-profits that ran the country, was set to win.

Instead the people stood in front of the machine. They blocked it with their bodies. They went to vote even though the polls told them it was useless. They looked at the empty factories and barren farms. They drove through the early cold. They waited in line. They came home to their children to tell them that they had done their best for their future. They bet on America. And they won.

They won improbably. And they won amazingly.

They were tired of seeing their America disappear. And they stood up and fought back. This was their last hope. Their last chance to be heard.

The media had the election wrong all along. This wasn't about personalities. It was about the impersonal. No one will ever interview all those men and women. We will never see all their faces. But they are us and we are them.

They came to the aid of a nation in peril. They did what real Americans have always done. They did the impossible.

America is a nation of impossibilities. We exist because our forefathers did not take no for an answer. Not from kings or tyrants. Not from the elites who told them that it couldn't be done.

The day when we stop being able to pull off the impossible is the day that America will cease to exist.

Today is not that day. Today 50 million Americans did the impossible. Midnight has passed. A new day had come. And everything is about to change.

An article by Daniel Greenfield titled “Jack Smith Admits the Trump Prosecutions Were Election Interference All Along” was posted at frontpagemag.com on Nov. 7, 2024.

The Biden-Harris administration, which just lost an election to Trump, is preparing to wind down the various legal cases that it had pending against him.

The official reason is that a president can't be prosecuted. But if that were the case, why was Trump beleaguered with an 'independent prosecutor' when he was in office to begin with?

Democrats had spent years promising to bring President Trump to 'justice' while he was a sitting president.

The prosecutions and investigations of Trump were election interference all along. Since there are no more elections to interfere with, there's no longer any point in pursuing them.

That's not to say other “investigations” won't emerge, but they'll be targeted to interfering with the actions and policies of the Trump administration rather than trying to sell the public on the notion that he's a “felon” who has committed crimes.

The investigations of Trump were election interference from the very beginning. Russiagate was generated by the Clinton campaign in partnership with the Obama administration to justify spying on the campaign, smearing Trump and going after his associates. Russiagate lingered on to target Trump associates. But the Jack Smith election interference campaign is really no good for any of that.

Litigating the 2016 or 2020 elections is futile because there's no longer a 2024 election to aim at.

Actual democracy beat "fortifying democracy."

Election interference in order to investigate election interference has ceased to be a viable strategy.

Isaiah 55:6-11—“Seek you the Lord while He may be found, call upon Him while He is near. Let the wicked forsake his way, and the unrighteous man his thoughts; let him return to the Lord, and He will have mercy on him; and to our God, for He will abundantly pardon. ‘For My thoughts are not your thoughts, nor are your ways My ways,’ says the Lord. For as the heavens are higher than the earth, so are My ways higher than your ways, and My thoughts than your thoughts. For as the rain comes down, and the snow from heaven, and do not return there, but water the earth, and make it bring forth and bud, that it may give seed to the sower and bread to the eater, so shall My word by that goes forth from My mouth; it shall not return to Me void, but it shall accomplish what I please, and it shall prosper in the thing for which I sent it.”
