Luke 21:34-36–“But take heed to yourselves, lest your souls be weighed down with self-indulgence, and drunkenness, or the anxieties of this life, and that day come on you suddenly, like a falling trap; for it will come on all dwellers on the face of the whole earth. But beware of slumbering; and every moment pray that you may be fully strengthened to escape from all these coming evils, and to take you stand in the presence of the Son of Man” (Weymouth New Testament).

An article by Seth J. Frantzman titled “Ten Things Iran Thinks It Achieved on October 7 – Analysis” was posted at jpost.com on Nov. 19, 2023. [Since the article did not succinctly or specifically list ten items, we have chosen 10 ideas from the article.]

In a speech on Saturday [November 18], Hossein Salami (Head of the Islamic Revolutionary Guard Corps or “IRGC”) claimed that Hamas’s October 7 attack on Israel was a step towards its defeat, as well as that of the U.S.

1. Iranians believe that Israel was shaken to its core.
2. Israel’s military dominance has been tested.
3. October 7 attack shows Israel needs foreign support.
4. Iran believes that support from the U.S. won’t be enough.
5. Iran will use U.S. support for Israel to mobilize anti-U.S. sentiment.
6. Iran will seek to show how the U.S. and Israel can be defeated.
7. Iran foresees an endless war.
8. Iran sees a way to transform terrorist groups (like Hamas) into a fighting force.
9. Iran will unite its various fronts for a multi-front war – involving encirclement.
10. Iran hints of more attacks coming – an “invisible” war or a war of “ghosts.”

An article by Natasha Mozgovaya titled “Israeli Gaza Expert Says Hamas Attack Changed His View of Group” was posted at voanews.com on Nov. 21, 2023. Following is the article.

Shlomi Eldar has a rare specialization for an Israeli media personality: for over 30 years, he’s been covering Hamas and Gaza.

In his books and award-winning documentaries, Eldar has tried to tell the stories of the Palestinians beyond the wall. He still grapples with the shock of the Oct. 7 attack, no longer seeing them as a group that can be reasoned with.

After the Oct. 7 attack, he said he got a phone call from a Palestinian who told him of family members killed in an Israeli strike in Gaza. Eldar admits all he could say was, “Look what Hamas did.”

Since 1991, as a reporter, book author and documentarist, Eldar brought to audiences in Israel and beyond, stories of the Palestinians in Gaza – putting a human face on repeated cycles of the conflict and revealing painful situations.

His 2010 movie “Precious Life” was about the struggle to save a Palestinian baby with a rare genetic disease. The baby was treated by Israeli doctors with the help of an Israeli donor whose son was killed by Palestinians.

In 2009, Palestinian doctor Izzeldin Abuelaish was on the phone with Eldar during a live broadcast when the doctor discovered his daughters and a niece were killed in an Israeli tank strike.

Over the years, Eldar also interviewed Hamas leaders, including Ismail Haniyeh who resides in Qatar.

Yet, Eldar said the Oct. 7 attack by Hamas, which killed over 1,200 people in Israel, left him in deep shock, as it did much of the rest of the country, especially after he saw the bodycam footage of the attackers.

“I followed Hamas for over 30 years. I’ve never imagined to myself they become monsters,” he said, adding that he never previously compared any of the group’s behavior to the Nazis and the Holocaust. But Eldar said seeing the images of burned bodies from the Oct. 7 attacks was not something he could shake off. “Butchering, burning bodies, children, rapes, kidnappings. They kidnapped a baby, nine months old, to Gaza,” he said.

He said Hamas was elected in 2006, in part in response to the perceived corruption of the Palestinian Authority, as well as Hamas' welfare work with the people in the Gaza Strip. He said Hamas has since neglected its responsibilities to the people, instead diverting resources from civilians and opting for violence.

Eldar said the attack cost Hamas a lot of support in Gaza.

“People in Gaza know what Hamas brings them – to the future of Gaza. They took them 20 or 25 years back – even more. I heard voices in Gaza now, talking freely, [look] ‘what you’ve made for us. What you’ve done to us, they said.’ They are hiding in the tunnels,” he said.

He thinks the exceptional cruelty of the Oct. 7 attack was made possible because of a combination of several factors.

- One of them is Yahya Sinwar, the Hamas leader in Gaza. Sinwar was released in a 2011 prisoner exchange for the kidnapped Israeli soldier Gilad Shalit.

“He is a cruel man. I’ve heard many, many stories,” Eldar said. “He was arrested in 1989 because he butchered Palestinians. He suspected they were collaborating with Israel, and he just tortured them and killed them.”

- The second factor, which was easy for Israel to neglect beyond the wall separating Gaza and Israel, Eldar said, is the education of children in Gaza toward violence.

“The new generation, the young people – they were born, or they were children when Hamas took power in the Gaza Strip. Maybe they were children, five, six, 10 years old and they grew up with incitement all the time. And they’ve been taught that the Israelis are not human beings. When they invaded Israel, they didn’t see the Israelis as human beings, just something that they can kill,” Eldar said.

He explained the connection between the different groups attacking Israel in the north and south is Iran and its call for jihad against Israel.

“Hamas, Islamic Jihad and Hezbollah are affiliated to Iran. Iran gave them an order to fight Israel. We have three main groups – Hamas, Hezbollah, Islamic Jihad and other smaller organizations like the Houthis in Yemen. And we can see the fingerprints of the Iranians.”

Israel has declared “the end of Hamas” as the main goal of the military campaign in Gaza. Eldar is skeptical about that.

“We can defeat Hamas. But we can’t eliminate them. I think that Hamas is an ideological movement. An ideological movement you can’t destroy. We can defeat the militant group,” he said, reminding that Hamas’ top leaders are not in Gaza, but in Qatar. “Qatar is hiding Ismail Haniyeh and Khaled Mashal. They can rebuild Hamas again.”

Eldar is also pessimistic about the possible solutions for after the war, pointing to the lack of political alternatives, and the cost of Prime Minister Benjamin Netanyahu's government strategy of weakening the Palestinian Authority.

"The Israelis didn't know about it [the attack] because Netanyahu preferred to divide between the West Bank and the Gaza Strip, demonizing [Palestinian Authority President Mahmoud] Abbas for years," Eldar argues. "So, in the end, we were surprised when we saw that Hamas was not what we thought. We thought that we could contain Hamas. We failed."

He said the recovery of Gaza may take decades – and he is not sure if the border with Israel will ever reopen.

An article by Herb Keinon titled "Israeli Hostage Deal: What Makes Israel Special and Vulnerable?" was posted at jpost.com on Nov. 21, 2023. Following are excerpts of the article.

This is a quintessential Israeli moment: Placing responsibility for its citizens above everything else, even at the risk of endangering other citizens (soldiers and citizens) somewhere down the road.

It is this feeling of mutual responsibility that makes Israel different. It is doubtful that many other countries would agree to halt a raging war, giving the enemy a much-needed respite to regroup, in order to release a few dozen hostages.

But this is what sets Israel apart. This sense of mutual responsibility is part of the Zionist ethos – that no Jew is left alone, that Israel will go literally to the ends of the Earth to rescue Israelis and other Jews in distress.

This is a fundamental building block of Israeli solidarity. And solidarity is critical for the resilience and unity in a crisis that allows the country to flourish and thrive.

But there is more to it than that.

We are a small nation, and everyone can identify with the families of those whose relatives are languishing in Hamas captivity.

It was clear from the very beginning of this war that if there was a possibility for a deal to release the hostages, Israel would take it. Israelis could never bear the thought of simply giving up 240 people in Hamas's hands.

Hamas, obviously, knows this. They also surely thought that they could get much more than they are now getting for the hostages. If they got 1,027 terrorists for the release of Gilad Shalit in 2011, what might they now get for a 10-month-old baby? That they were not able to get a higher price is a direct result of Israel's military assault on Gaza.

Hamas is in trouble.

- More than it needs the release of its security prisoners from Israeli jails, it needs a ceasefire.
- It needs to regroup, to refuel.
- It needs to stop the IDF's slow but relentless destruction of its capabilities.
- It hopes that the world will step in and lengthen this ceasefire.

There is a risk that when the fighting resumes after the ceasefire, Israel will lose more soldiers as a result of Hamas having been able to regroup. There is a risk that the world will, indeed, step in and not allow Israel to continue its offensive. But, with the lives of babies, children and mothers hanging in the balance, it is a risk that the country is willing to take.

It's part of what makes Israel, Israel.

Isaiah 55:6-11–“Seek you the Lord while He may be found, call upon Him while He is near. Let the wicked forsake his way, and the unrighteous man his thoughts; let him return to the Lord, and He will have mercy on him; and to our God, for He will abundantly pardon. ‘For My thoughts are not your thoughts, nor are your ways My ways,’ says the Lord. For as the heavens are higher than the earth, so are My ways higher than your ways, and My thoughts than your thoughts. For as the rain comes down, and the snow from heaven, and do not return there, but water the earth, and make it bring forth and bud, that it may give seed to the sower and bread to the eater, so shall My word by that goes forth from My mouth; it shall not return to Me void, but it shall accomplish what I please, and it shall prosper in the thing for which I sent it.”
