Luke 21:34-36—“But take heed to yourselves, lest your souls be weighed down with self-indulgence, and drunkenness, or the anxieties of this life, and that day come on you suddenly, like a falling trap; for it will come on all dwellers on the face of the whole earth. But beware of slumbering; and every moment pray that you may be fully strengthened to escape from all these coming evils, and to take you stand in the presence of the Son of Man” (Weymouth New Testament).

An article by Yonah Jeremy Bob titled “Iran Picks New Supreme Leader: The Impact on Israel, Nukes and All-Out War” was posted at jpost.com on Jan. 25, 2024. Following are excerpts of the article.

Iran’s Guardian Council’s decision this week to disqualify virtually all “pragmatists” (including former president Hassan Rouhani) from public office makes ongoing conflict between Israel and Iran’s proxies a virtual certainty, and war more likely than ever.

At stake on March 1 are both the parliamentary elections as well as elections for the 88-member, eight-year term Assembly of Experts.

This round of the Assembly of Experts is expected to select the next Supreme Leader – given that Iranian Supreme Leader Ayatollah Ali Khamenei is nearly 85 and has been sick repeatedly.

From 1997-2005 and again from 2013-2021, Khamenei experimented with Iranian presidents who were reformists and pragmatists – Mohammad Khatami and Hassan Rouhani respectfully.

For the 2020 Iranian parliamentary elections, Khamenei not only disqualified reformists . . . he started to also disqualify pragmatists – whose bedrock values were as anti-Western as Khamenei’s hardliners, but who believed that trying to reach deals with the West to improve relations was a tactical imperative.

These moves and the banning of hundreds of other candidates by Khamenei (or technically by his Guardian Council, which does his bidding in banning undesirable candidates from running) brought voter turnout down to record lows.

Under Raisi's hardliners, this has meant a constant push for enriching record levels of uranium to get to the nuclear threshold for not only one nuclear weapon, but potentially for an arsenal.

Institute for Science and International Security President David Albright has said that Tehran, if it decides to, is so close to the threshold that in one month it could weaponize enough uranium for six potential nuclear weapons – and in five months, enough for 12.

This number will likely only grow under a continued hardliner leadership. Pragmatists may not love Israel or the U.S. any more than their hardline brethren, and there was plenty of terrorism and nuclear jousting when they were in power.

Yet, they might have rolled back some of the terrorism in the region and a new JCPOA 2.0 could have led to the Islamic Republic giving away its current enormous stock of enriched uranium.

This would have only kicked the can down the road until expirations of the JCPOA's nuclear limits in 2025 and 2030. But given that no one has slowed Iran's nuclear progress very much since mid-2022 and the current Gaza War, that might have been valuable breathing room for Israel.

With Raisi and all of the branches of government controlled by hardliners, and Raisi possibly in place to succeed Khamenei himself, Jerusalem and Washington can expect only continued hostility and violence from Iran for the foreseeable future.

An article by Jonathan Schwartz (a graduate of Yale University in 2021) titled “Why Am I, an American Jew, Going to Israel During the War Against Hamas?” was posted at jpost.com on Jan. 21, 2024. Following are excerpts of the article.

Next month I will travel to Israel. Along with thousands of other young Americans Jews, I’ve decided to spend a few weeks volunteering with local organizations and connecting with my Israeli peers. As I’ve been breaking the news of my upcoming trip to family and friends, the most common reaction I receive is a concerned and skeptical “why?”

- Why do you want to fly into a war zone?
- Aren’t you concerned for your safety?
- What will people think of you for publicly supporting Israel?
- Why take the risk?

In the weeks following October 7, I have felt isolated, frustrated, angry and afraid. I've watched my friends colleagues, and former classmates almost immediately ignore, minimize, or justify the atrocities of Hamas. I've seen anti-Semitism rage on the campus I called home just a few years ago. Organizations, politicians, and public figures (who I once admired for their work in building a more inclusive, equal and prosperous world) have been silent or antagonistic to the concerns of American Jews.

We're all heard the message loud and clear. In the spaces that so many of us have occupied, among those dedicated to combating hatred, to uplifting and protecting minority communities, to opposing terrorism and denouncing the abuse of women – Jews don't count.

The shocking realization that so many around me are ambivalent (or worse) to our fate has been terrifying.

So like many of my peers, I'm left wondering what will come of the Jewish people's ability to continue living safely and prosperously in America. And as I've felt repelled by the people and places that used to feel like home, I feel closer and more connected than ever to the Jewish community and to Israel.

- I'm going to Israel to bear witness to the atrocities committed by Hamas.
- I want to understand the scope of the horrors of October 7 and the lasting impact the day has made on Israeli society.
- I want to hear the stories of those murdered, kidnapped, and injured.
- I want to witness the strength and resolve of the Israeli people as they work to defeat Hamas and ensure that these atrocities can never happen again.
- I'm going to Israel to show solidarity with the Israeli people. We say that the Jewish people are am echad v'lev echad – one people with one heart. When one Jew is hurting, we all feel the pain. I want to make sure that the Israeli people know that American Jews share in the devastation they are experiencing.
- And lastly, I'm going to Israel to say to those around me – that despite the hatred, the silence, and the indifference you have shown; the Jewish people will not be deterred. We will not disregard our connection to our ancestral homeland. We will not turn our backs on each other. We will not turn our backs on each other. And we will not be ashamed of the only Jewish state the world has ever known.
- I want to say loudly and clearly to those around me: Am Yisreal Chai, a Hebrew phrase that translates to The People of Israel Live.

An article by Charles Creitz titled “Heritage Foundation Head [Kevin Roberts] Defends Trump, Scolds ‘Elites’ at World Economic Forum: ‘You’re Part of the Problem’” was posted at foxbusiness.com on Jan. 18, 2024. Following is the article.

The president of the Heritage Foundation confronted hosts at the World Economic Forum Thursday [January 18] in Davos, Switzerland, challenging claims that the WEF is protecting democracy and calling so-called elites “part of the problem.”

Heritage Foundation President Kevin Roberts spoke out from Davos, where he had been invited to speak on a panel at the World Economic Forum. Roberts told reporters after his speech that he was somewhat shocked to have received an invitation to the annual meeting of world leaders and globalist figures, but said he cherished the opportunity to give voice to the “forgotten people” who are not collectively heard from or considered by those in attendance.

“The forgotten people aren’t just poor or working-class Americans of all ethnic backgrounds. There’s a lot of those forgotten people, as I’ve come to learn over the last few years [who are] small business owners; people who scraped and save,” he said, adding that many aren’t often inherently political.

“They all believe the same thing, which is that the American Dream is slipping away from them.”

At the WEF, Roberts spoke on a panel entitled “What to expect from a possible Republican administration,” and was joined by the following people.

- Rob Portman – ex-Republican Senator of Ohio
- Gerald Baker – Wall Street Journal
- Professor Walter Russell Mead – Bard College

Roberts offered pointed countervailing views to the majority of Davos figures that at times appeared to ruffle the moderator – British international affairs expert, Sir Robin Niblett.

The moderator at one point asked Roberts about former President Trump’s promise of “retribution” if he regains office, and that the World Economic Forum’s purported defenses of liberal democracy could be “swept under the rug” by the mogul.

Roberts answered: “It’s laughable that you or anyone would describe Davos as ‘protecting liberal democracy’. It’s equally laughable to use the word ‘dictatorship’ at Davos and aim that at President Trump. In fact, I think that’s absurd.”

Roberts went on to tell the Davos forum the next conservative president will have a popular mandate to take on the power of the elites.

“The thing that I want to drive home here, the very reason that I’m here at Davos, is to explain to many people in this room and who are watching, with all due respect, nothing personal, but that you’re part of the problem,” he told Niblett.

Roberts said elites in the vein of the WEF tell average people “the reality is ‘X’ – when in fact the reality is ‘Y’” on issues ranging from border security to climate change.

When Niblett asked what figures Roberts believed would be part of a second Trump administration, he replied the possible next president-elect would decide. However, Roberts went on to offer a pointed characterization of the type of person the “forgotten people” want to see in the bureaucracy.

Roberts said: “I’ll be candid here, because I think I’ve been invited here to be candid. The kind of person who will come into the next conservative administration is going to be governed by one principle, and that is destroying the grasp that political elites and unelected technocrats have over the average person.”

Roberts continued: “I will be candid and say that the agenda that every single member of the [next] administration needs to have is to compile a list of everything that’s ever been proposed at the World Economic Forum and object to all of them wholesale.”

Any official in the 47th presidential administration unwilling to reform the bureaucracy has no place in Washington, he said.

In an appearance with Fox Business Maria Bartiromo prior to his WEF remarks, Roberts quipped how an “America First” message hasn’t seemed to resonate at the conference: “Surprisingly it isn’t. And yet there are four or five of us who’ve been invited here out of a few thousand who actually understand that America First policies are right, not just for Americans, but for non-Americans as well. When Americans are at their apex of freedom . . . the rest of the world really benefits.”

Isaiah 55:6-11—“Seek you the Lord while He may be found, call upon Him while He is near. Let the wicked forsake his way, and the unrighteous man his thoughts; let him return to the Lord, and He will have mercy on him; and to our God, for He will abundantly pardon. ‘For My thoughts are not your thoughts, nor are your ways My ways,’ says the Lord. For as the heavens are higher than the earth, so are My ways higher than your ways, and My thoughts than your thoughts. For as the rain comes down, and the snow from heaven, and do not return there, but water the earth, and make it bring forth and bud, that it may give seed to the sower and bread to the eater, so shall My word by that goes forth from My mouth; it shall not return to Me void, but it shall accomplish what I please, and it shall prosper in the thing for which I sent it.”
