Luke 21:34-36—“But take heed to yourselves, lest your souls be weighed down with self-indulgence, and drunkenness, or the anxieties of this life, and that day come on you suddenly, like a falling trap; for it will come on all dwellers on the face of the whole earth. But beware of slumbering; and every moment pray that you may be fully strengthened to escape from all these coming evils, and to take you stand in the presence of the Son of Man” (Weymouth New Testament).

An article by Star Parker titled “As Election Approaches, Policy and Party as Important as Personalities” was posted at townhall.com on May 22, 2024. Following are excerpts of the article.

Although the focus in the upcoming elections is on the presidential candidates, it’s worth keeping in mind that of at least equal importance is which party has the controlling hand on policy in Washington.

Because the country is becoming increasingly polarized, which party controls will lead in dramatically different directions. This has profound implications for the country’s future.

Judicial branch

Consider the judicial branch.

The conservative majority on the Supreme Court has changed the course of the nation’s history. Overturning Roe vs. Wade was a major game changer. But not so many years earlier, in a court less conservative, same sex marriage became law of the land. The chances that decision would have occurred in the current court are minimal.

But now the two oldest justices are part of the conservative majority – Clarence Thomas is almost 76, and Samuel Alito is 74. That their replacements will be conservative will depend more on which party controls rather than which particular Republican sits in the White House. Regarding the appointment of judges, the values defining the two parties are worlds apart.

Republicans want faithfulness to the Constitution. Democrats want diversity.

Notice a contrast.

- Judges appointed by Biden – 197 judges – 125 are not white and 72 are white.
- Judges appointed by Trump – 237 judges – 37 were not white and 200 were white.

- Biden appointees by gender – 63% are women and 37% are men.
- Trump appointees by gender – 24% were women and 76% were men.

Regarding this record, Biden noted “I’m particularly proud that these judges reflect the diversity that is our country’s strength.”

Inevitably, those on the left will say Trump’s appointment criterion was white male supremacy.

But the difference between Trump and Biden appointments is putting the Constitution front and center as opposed to ethnicity.

Of course, there is more to the picture than the judiciary.

Fiscal situation

The fiscal situation of the nation is frightening and dangerous. Our only hope for turning this around is Republican control on Capitol Hill.

For the first seven months of fiscal year 2024, expenditures of interest payments on our massive national debt exceeded both spending on Defense and on Medicare.

The Senate is on a razor’s edge, with Democrats controlling 51-49. Estimates are that retiring Democrat Senator Joe Manchin will be replaced by a Republican. In a 50-50 Senate, with a Republican in the White House, a Republican vice president will cast the deciding vote. Of the 34 Senate seats up this year, estimates are the more vulnerable are Manchin and four other Democrats.

Social issues

Certainly, on the social issues of great concern to the country (abortion, our dangerously declining birth rates and marriage rates), Republicans bring a pro-life, pro-family agenda to Washington.

International issues

And then, of course, is the position of our nation in an increasingly dangerous world. Per the American Enterprise Institute: “China also now boasts the largest navy in the world, alongside the biggest coast guard and maritime militia.”

This while U.S. Defense spending flirts with a historic low, at half a percentage of GDP where it stood in the 1980s.

Hudson Institute scholar Walter Russell Mead writes in ‘The Wall Street Journal’ (speaking about the aggressive advancement globally of Iran, Russia and China): “Many Americans still don’t fully grasp how serious the international situation has become . . . Team Biden, unfortunately, would rather starve the military and embrace the diplomacy of retreat.”

Focus on policies

So, yes, every presidential contest is a battle of personalities. But let’s not lose perspective that party is what draws the dividing line in Washington. And perhaps there has never been a time where the gap between the worldviews of Republicans and Democrats has been this gaping.

So, the mind set going into this election season should be about policy as well as about individual candidates.

1. Incentivize justices to defect and change their rulings.
 2. De-Legitimize the Court’s outputs.
 3. Provide political cover for aggressive ethics reforms that are stalking horses for bureaucratic controls to kneecap the Republican majority – such as mandatory recusals on the basis of unevenly applied ethical standards.
 4. Create the political conditions necessary for court-packing.

An article by Eric Kaufmann titled “Why Young People Become Woker and Woker: A Cultural Emergency” was posted at nypost.com on May 18, 2024. Following is the article.

We are in a cultural emergency. Future generations are unlikely to value freedom and reason as we do.

Regardless of your stance on Israel-Palestine, the campus protests since October 7 have revealed a dark side to our dominant left-liberal ideology, with its emphasis on “be kind” humanitarianism and equal representation.

In my book “The Third Awakening: A 12-Point Plan for Rolling Back Progressive Extremism,” I argue that bleeding-heart liberals, not cultural Marxist radicals, are largely responsible for the woke cultural revolution.

When the complexity of the world is collapsed into a totalizing black and white morality play pitting the “kind” minority against the unkind majority, the former are romanticized, the latter dehumanized.

Whites are mean, “people of color” nice.

Progressives who views the world through this lens perceive Jews as white villains, Palestinians as minority victims.

These cultural reflexes are especially strong among young Americans, who lack the vestigial patriotism and grounding in free speech that checks progressive extremism among older liberal Americans.

Those who content themselves with the comforting belief that we have reached peak woke and will soon return to classical liberalism need to think again.

The retreat of senior liberals at “The New York Time” or “Meta” from the excesses of cancel culture and the diversity, equity and inclusion (DEI) agenda cannot halt generational turnover.

Woke may not be able to triumph just yet, bu, one funeral and one hire at a time, it is on course to prevail.

Consider that a Harvard-Harris poll finds nearly half of Zoomers support Hamas over Israel while a Skeptic Research Center survey finds that a similar share believe “the Israeli government advocates for white supremacy.”

Among older people, the share who agree is in low single digits, exposing a massive generational canyon.

The youth-quake is taking place across the West.

I find that British 18-25-year-olds split evenly over whether J.K. Rowling (who thinks a biological male is not a woman) should be dropped by her publisher while fewer than five percent of those over 50 do.

Progressive illiberalism may be less fashionable in the boardrooms of 2024 than it was in 2020, but its writ will likely run through them in 2044.

We should not lull ourselves into the comforting conceit that the kids will grow out of woke.

If the rise of secularism is any indication, the young can readily serve as the shock troops of a new order, leading society toward transformative value change.

Detailed analysis of five decades of survey data by Dennis Chong and his California political-science colleagues shows that young people as recently as the early 2000s were much more tolerant of speech that might offend a sensitive member of a minority group than their Gen-Z counterparts are today.

College-educated youth (the leaders of tomorrow) are now more likely than young people with just a high school diploma to believe in moral absolutism – overturning decades of prior research.

The belief – especially among young women – that sensitivity to minorities is more important than free speech, truth or merit is likely to be sticky across the life course.

Where do they catch these mind viruses?

Social media (especially TikTok) is important, but so are the nation's schools.

Research I conducted with Zach Goldberg for the Manhattan Institute on a national sample of 1,500 18-20 year-olds shows that 72% of young people who reported being taught five or more critical race theory (CRT) ideas at school agreed that they sometimes think “white people are racist and mean” because of the way black people have been treated.

This is nearly double the level found among youth with no CRT exposure. The share who endorse racial preferences for blacks in hiring and promotion doubles with heavy CRT exposure, while the proportion who say the U.S. is built on stolen land spikes from 44% to 73%. Progressive education is transforming the political loyalties of young Americans.

Thus a young person with a Republican mother taught no critical race or gender ideas leans 61% Republican, while those with a Republican mother exposed to six or more CSJ ideas in school are just 25% Republican.

What can be done to defuse this ticking generational time bomb? GOP leaders must find the stamina to take on the education establishment and win.

They need to insist on removing political bias from the classroom while compelling schools to strictly adhere to ideologically-neutral messaging.

The crimes of Stalin, Mao and Pol Pot should be brought to life alongside those of Hitler and the Jim Crow regime.

When it comes to the culture, we need to win hearts – not just arguments.

This effort requires a major reallocation of political capital.

Conservative priorities must reorient away from economics and foreign policy toward the reform of cultural institutions. This means state and federal politicians (who are weak on these issues or prepared to sacrifice them to vested interests) must be removed in primaries.

The hour is late. Only a laser-like focus on reforming schools can avert our slow-motion civilizational train wreck.

Isaiah 55:6-11—“Seek you the Lord while He may be found, call upon Him while He is near. Let the wicked forsake his way, and the unrighteous man his thoughts; let him return to the Lord, and He will have mercy on him; and to our God, for He will abundantly pardon. ‘For My thoughts are not your thoughts, nor are your ways My ways,’ says the Lord. For as the heavens are higher than the earth, so are My ways higher than your ways, and My thoughts than your thoughts. For as the rain comes down, and the snow from heaven, and do not return there, but water the earth, and make it bring forth and bud, that it may give seed to the sower and bread to the eater, so shall My word by that goes forth from My mouth; it shall not return to Me void, but it shall accomplish what I please, and it shall prosper in the thing for which I sent it.”
