But beware of slumbering; and every moment pray that you may be fully strengthened to escape from all these coming evils, and to take your stand in the presence of the Son of Man” (Weymouth New Testament).

Looking back to August 2020, an article by Philip Bump titled “What Measures of Ideology Tell Us About Members of Congress” was posted at washingtonpost.com on Aug. 13, 2020. Following are excerpts of the article.

President Trump’s reelection team [in 2020] must have been ecstatic to discover, buried in a wonky government-tracking website, a bit of data that helped it make the case it has wanted to make for months – that former vice president Joe Biden is beholden to the far left-wing of his party.

Why, according to GovTrack, his pick to serve as running mate (Senator Kamala Harris) is the most liberal member of the Senate!

In an interview on Fox Business on Wednesday, Trump was asked about the selection of the California Democrat.

He replied: “Well, she’s radical left. Now she tries to pretend she’s not, but she is the most liberal person in the U.S. Senate, acknowledged to be.”

One can certainly dispute the extent to which being a member of the Senate overlaps with participation in any radical movements. But Trump is not wrong about GovTrack’s determination. The site evaluated all 100 senators, and Harris emerged as the most liberal.

[Technically, she was listed at #99 – but she was the most liberal Democrat, because #100 was Bernie Sanders who was listed as an independent.]

- In 2017, Harris was the eighth-most liberal senator.
- In 2018, Harris was fourth-most liberal senator.

We can look at other indexes of partisanship to get a broader sense of how Harris is viewed.

Voteview is a project of the political science department at the University of California at Los Angeles. It tracks members of Congress on two dimensions.

- The first is ideology, as assessed by considering votes centered on the extent of support for government intervention and deployment.
- The second is a bit more esoteric – measuring, in essence, the extent to which a member of Congress has expressed a willingness to buck the establishment.

On this measure, too, Harris is among the most liberal senators – surpassed only by Senator Elizabeth Warren (Democrat from Massachusetts).

Looking back to November 2019, an article by Terry McAteer titled “Another Side to Kamala Harris” was posted at theunion.com on November 5, 2019. Following is the article.

As many of you know, my family has some long political roots. My dad (J. Eugene McAteer) was a San Francisco supervisor and state senator until his untimely death at age 51.

I pursued the educational political route and was elected Nevada County Superintendent of Schools for six-four-year terms. Our son (Gregory) loves politics and thought that it also might be his passion.

A few years ago, I assisted him in securing a summer non-paid internship with Senator Dianne Feinstein in her San Francisco office. Feinstein’s office was unable to have Gregory start in June, but told him that then-Attorney General Kamala Harris was looking for summer interns.

While I have nothing against now-Senator Harris as she is a good orator and has done some fine things while holding elective office, I believe, however, how she treats her staff is as important as an individual’s legislative accomplishments. A person’s character is probably one of the most important attributes for someone wanting to obtain the office of President.

Presidential candidate and U.S. Senator Amy Klobuchar had drawn scrutiny for her berating treatment of her staff. This particular flaw by elected officials in dealing with common courtesy and respect toward staff is something for which most people in this country have little tolerance. Sure, the job is stressful and we’ve all dealt with an angry boss in our lives, but there is another side of Kamala Harris which the general public does not know.

Gregory had an eye-opening experience in Kamala Harris’ office that none of us expected. For his sake, the month could not pass quickly enough. Needless to say, he was delighted to work in Feinstein’s office for the rest of the summer.

Four short episodes I would like to share of his month-long internship for Kamala Harris.

Senator Harris vocally throws around ‘F-bombs’ and other profanity constantly in her berating of staff and others. The staff is in complete fear of her and she uses her profanity throughout the day.

As Attorney General, Senator Harris instructed her entire staff to stand every morning as she entered the office and say, “Good Morning General.”

Never once during the month-long internship did Harris introduce herself to our son (as he was only in an office with 20 paid employees) and staff was too intimidated by her to introduce him. The only acknowledgment was a form letter of “thanks” signed by Harris given to him on his last day of service.

Gregory was also given instructions to never address Harris nor look her in the eye as that privilege was only allowed to senior staff members.

I don’t know about you, but this is not the workplace of someone who respects her staff. For a woman of color to have employees stand when she enters the room smacks of a bygone era that we (as Americans) deplore and find demeaning. Furthermore, that she didn’t show the quality of leadership skills or even being a decent boss (much less the “class” to approach Gregory at least once during the month to say “Hi, I’m Kamala Harris and I want to thank you for volunteering in my office”) is really troubling.

Finally, what is up with the “don’t look her in the eye” instruction?

I know I wouldn’t want to work in that hostile environment.

I had Gregory read this piece before submitting it and he is willing to put his own integrity on the line, because the truth is important to him. In fact, integrity and character are still virtues that can and should be upheld in our politicians and politics. We just haven’t seen them in a while.

An article by Adam McCann titled “States With the Most People in Financial Distress” was posted at wallethub.com on July 17, 2024. Following are excerpts of the article.

In order to shed light on the financial troubles experienced by people across the U.S., and to show where those difficulties are most pronounced, WalletHub compared the 50 states across nine key metrics. Our data set includes factors like the average credit score, the change in the number of bankruptcy filings between March 2023 and March 2024, and the share of people with accounts in distress.

Isaiah 55:6-11—“Seek you the Lord while He may be found, call upon Him while He is near. Let the wicked forsake his way, and the unrighteous man his thoughts; let him return to the Lord, and He will have mercy on him; and to our God, for He will abundantly pardon. ‘For My thoughts are not your thoughts, nor are your ways My ways,’ says the Lord. For as the heavens are higher than the earth, so are My ways higher than your ways, and My thoughts than your thoughts. For as the rain comes down, and the snow from heaven, and do not return there, but water the earth, and make it bring forth and bud, that it may give seed to the sower and bread to the eater, so shall

My word by that goes forth from My mouth; it shall not return to Me void, but it shall accomplish what I please, and it shall prosper in the thing for which I sent it.”
