Luke 21:34-36—“But take heed to yourselves, lest your souls be weighed down with self-indulgence, and drunkenness, or the anxieties of this life, and that day come on you suddenly, like a falling trap; for it will come on all dwellers on the face of the whole earth. But beware of slumbering; and every moment pray that you may be fully strengthened to escape from all these coming evils, and to take your stand in the presence of the Son of Man” (Weymouth New Testament).

An article by Staff titled “We Strike Nuclear Targets, They Strike Hospitals” was posted at jpost.com on June 19, 2025. Following is the article.

Prime Minister Benjamin Netanyahu visited the impact site at Soroka Medical Center in Beersheba along with health minister and the mayor of Beersheba on Thursday after a barrage of Iranian missiles struck the area.

Netanyahu said: “What we’re seeing here shows the entire difference. We strike nuclear and missile targets with precision, and they strike a hospital, where people can’t even get up and run. There’s a children’s and infants’ ward here. This is the entire difference between a democracy that acts according to law to save itself from these murderers, and these murderers who want to destroy each and every one of us. Every single one of us. Until the last of us.”

Iran struck Soroka Medical Center in the early-morning hours on Thursday with a barrage of ballistic missiles.

IDF spokesperson Brig.-Gen. Effie Defrin said at the site: “We cannot allow Iran to obtain nuclear weapons. We cannot allow Iran to obtain ballistic missiles. It is an existential threat for Israel. This is exactly the face of this regime. It’s a terror regime. We are targeting military targets, and they are targeting civilians. They are aiming to kill as many civilians as they can. And this is exactly why we launched this operation.”

Following is the statement about the LA riots that Kamala Harris posted on June 8, 2025. (Take a close look to see if she condemned any of the violence.)

Los Angeles is my home. And like so many Americans, I am appalled at what we are witnessing on the streets of our city. Deploying the National Guard is a dangerous escalation meant to promote chaos. In addition to the recent ICE raids in Southern California and across our nation, it is part of the Trump Administration’s cruel, calculated agenda to spread panic and division.

This Administration’s actions are not about public safety – they are about stoking fear. Fear of a community demanding dignity and due process.

Protest is a powerful tool – essential in the fight for justice. And as the LAPD, Mayor and Governor have noted, demonstrations in defense of our immigration neighbors have been overwhelmingly peaceful.

I continue to support millions of Americans who are standing up to protect our most fundamental rights and freedoms.

An article by Jarrett Stepman titled “Here’s Why There Are So Many Mexican Flags at the Los Angeles ICE Riots” was posted at dailysignal.com on June 12, 2025. Following are excerpts of the article.

If you are protesting and rioting to remain in the United States, why wave a Mexican flag?

That’s the question frequently being asked as Los Angeles continues to be wracked by violent protests that began in opposition to Immigration and Customs Enforcement raids in South California.

As many have noted, it’s probably not the best look for any protest group demanding to remain in America to wave the flag of a foreign country.

But reality is that the mass Mexican flag-waving isn’t just a PR blunder. They aren’t just waving those flags because they don’t want to be deported back to Mexico. The message they are sending is often not even pro-immigration, but bizarrely nativist.

Mexico’s Senate president made an argument that Los Angeles and the American Southwest should be a part of Mexico.

Even the noted public intellectual and acclaimed astronaut Katy Perry took to social media to exclaim how Los Angeles was “founded by Mexican settlers in 1781” and that it was “Mexican land.”

That’s curious since Mexico didn’t exist until 1821 when it declared independence from Spain.

This is all reflective of a viewpoint that’s common in California and south of the border. They don’t want to go back to Mexico; they want California to be Mexico or perhaps become part of some kind of larger ethnostate based on Aztlan – the mythical nation of the Aztecs.

This general ethos about California being Mexican land goes by many names, though it’s often referred to as “La Reconquista.”

The idea being that Mexicans and Latin Americans have an Indigenous right to California and other Western states annexed during the Mexican-American War. They have a right to take it back, the thinking goes.

It’s in part an ethnic solidarity movement that’s often been fused with socialist or Marxist ideology.

It’s true that the U.S. did acquire California and other Western states during the Mexican-American War, which was domestically quite controversial. But it wasn’t so simple as the U.S. just taking land because it could.

There were genuine border disputes between the countries after the U.S. annexed Texas – which had already rebelled and declared independence from the dysfunctional Mexican government.

Mexico was in deep financial distress, had withheld debt payments to American citizens, and had outright defaulted in many cases. The U.S. actually paid for the states it acquired from Mexico after winning the war and in the Treaty of Guadalupe Hidalgo even agreed to pay the debts they owed American citizens.

Mexico continued to spiral into financial chaos after the war. In fact, several European countries militarily intervened in Mexico during the 19th century to get Mexico to pay what it owed.

- The bottom line is that Mexico has been politically troubled since it went independent from Spain.
- On that note, if Mexico has some kind of timeless claim to California, why doesn’t Spain have a claim to all of Mexico?

As Substack writer Chad Crowley noted, Mexico’s claim to California is shallow, at best.

Crowley noted: “California was never Mexican in any meaningful civilizational or ethnonational sense. It existed as a peripheral holding of the Spanish Empire, a distant and neglected frontier governed less by law than by the limitations of geography. A sparse network of missions, presidios, and tenuous coastal settlements took shape in the late eighteenth century, but the interior remained tribal, unincorporated, and largely untouched.”

The idea that the U.S. should now suddenly give it up is preposterous.

People don’t have a right to break U.S. immigration laws or riot based on some tenuous ethnic land claims. Mexico doesn’t have a right to U.S. land because it lost a war over 150 years ago. Land, again, that we paid for.

The Reconquista types are demanding the United States become what many chose with their feet to leave. And that gets to the absurdity of their demands. Perhaps Mexico’s problem wasn’t that it lost land to the United States, but that the whole country wasn’t annexed at the end of the war.

One way or another, it’s a ridiculous argument. California doesn’t belong to Mexico. Foreign nationals don’t have a right to stay in the United States. Most Americans (including self-described Latinos) don’t want to live in a lawless Marxist ethno-state.

- They want order to be restored
- They want the border to be secured.
- They want lawbreakers to be deported.
- They want cartels to be eradicated.

Isaiah 55:6-11—“Seek you the Lord while He may be found, call upon Him while He is near. Let the wicked forsake his way, and the unrighteous man his thoughts; let him return to the Lord, and He will have mercy on him; and to our God, for He will abundantly pardon. ‘For My thoughts are not your thoughts, nor are your ways My ways,’ says the Lord. For as the heavens are higher than the earth, so are My ways higher than your ways, and My thoughts than your thoughts. For as the rain comes down, and the snow from heaven, and do not return there, but water the earth, and make it bring forth and bud, that it may give seed to the sower and bread to the eater, so shall My word by that goes forth from My mouth; it shall not return to Me void, but it shall accomplish what I please, and it shall prosper in the thing for which I sent it.”
